Scientology Donations Ruled Tax-Deductible

New York Circuit Court Rules; Supreme Court to Review Issue

On April 19, the U.S. 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals in New York ruled that Scientology parishioners' donations to Churches in the states within its purview — Connecticut, New York and Vermont — are tax-deductible contributions.

The ruling reflected the New York Court's understanding of the fundamental premises of the Church of Scientology when it stated: "Those who adhere to the tenets of the Church participate in the rituals of auditing and training, the central religious experiences of Scientology. . . . The purpose of these activities is to raise the spiritual awareness of the participant to the highest level through a series of progressive steps. Scientologists believe that the enhancement of civilization is linked to the spiritual goals to which they aspire."

The Court explained the reason for its ruling very clearly when it added that ". . . there is no way of measuring spiritual or religious benefits in such a way as to conclude that they are 'commensurate' with the fees paid for participation in the religious activities giving rise to those benefits."

President of the Church of Scientology International Rev. Heber Jentzsch spoke for all Scientologists when he praised the 2nd Circuit for its decision. "This decision is a major victory for all Scientologists," he said.

The 2nd Circuit's ruling concerning the tax-deductibility of Scientology services is the second of its kind by a federal appeals court in the United States.

On June 1 of last year, the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis, Missouri, ruled that fixed donations made by Scientologists in the states of Arkansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota for religious training and counseling were tax-deductible charitable contributions.

In that ruling, the 8th Circuit stated: "Spiritual gain to an individual church member cannot be valued by any measure known in the secular realm."

"Scientologists believe that in every person an immortal spiritual being exists independent of body and mind," the Court continued. "A Scientologist becomes aware of this spiritual dimension through a process called 'auditing' . . .

Psychosurgery Banned In Australia!

After an 11-year campaign by the Citizens Commission on Human Rights (CCHR) in Sydney, Australia, psychosurgery has been banned!

This monumental win, recently announced by the health minister of the state of New South Wales, will safeguard the people not only in this state but also all over Australia, since psychiatrists in other states sent the majority of their patients to New South Wales to receive these brain-destroying operations.

CCHR's campaign began in 1977, when the group was instrumental in having an inquiry called into psychosurgery. [See story in Scientology Today Issue 3.] After allegations were made by a nurse that experimental brain operations were being performed on patients in mental institutions, CCHR became very active in documenting specific cases in which psychosurgery patients had been damaged. The pressure that resulted from the widespread media coverage of these abuse cases forced the government to confront the issue.

The result of the subsequent inquiry was a recommendation that a psycho-

Court Sends Squirrels Down to Defeat — For Sixth and Final Time

On July 22, Scientologists won a major decisive victory over squirrels. In a decision released on that day by a Los Angeles Superior Court judge, a frivolous $1 billion class-action lawsuit filed against the Church of Scientology by a group of squirrels was thrown out — with no option for it to be filed again. This victory ends the final death throes of squirrels against the Church.

A class-action suit is supposed to be filed when there is an inordinately large number of plaintiffs with similar claims. The squirrels filed this suit on behalf of all squirrels. By the time the suit was dismissed, the entire "class" consisted of six squirrels. According to Church lawyers handling the defense of the suit, they were the last six of a dying breed.

The court's resounding rejection of the suit marked the sixth and final time the squirrels' suit had been tossed out. In his ruling, Superior Court Judge Barnet M. Cooperman held that even though the plaintiffs had been given five earlier opportunities to amend their complaint, their motions and allegations contained no basis in fact. In referring to various alleged claims in the suit, the judge denounced them as "devoid of facts," and "incomprehensible has pleaded."

In addition to this ultimate legal loss for the squirrels and the more than

Heber Jentzsch

A Letter From the President

Dear Scientologist,
Welcome to the fifth issue of Scientology Today.

In previous issues, I've briefed you on the goals and purposes of the Office of Special Affairs (OSA) network. These are best summarized by L. Ron Hubbard in HCO Policy Letter of 15 August 1960, DEPT OF GOVT AFFAIRS, where he states:

"The object of the Department is to broaden the impact of Scientology upon governments and other organizations and is to conduct itself so as to make the name and repute of Scientology better and more forceful."

Accomplishing this is a big game and a big responsibility, so I want to tell you more about what you can do personally to help us achieve this objective.

I invite you to participate in this game, which is one of the most exciting in all of Scientology today — working with the Office of Special Affairs to ensure Scientology is always here and expanding.

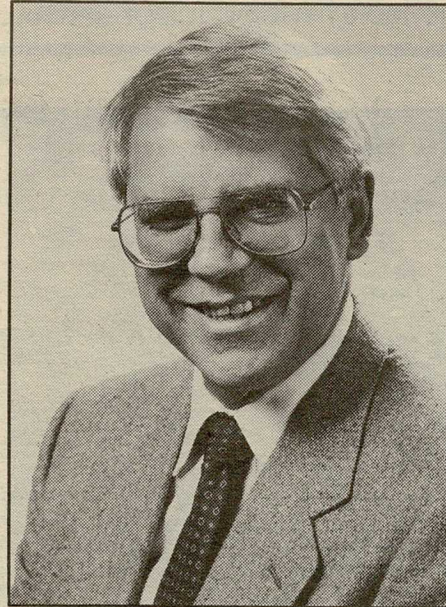

One of the ways you can contribute is through use of your own comm lines. As the Church expands throughout society, it is very important to find new comm lines in order to reach new publics.

I can give you a good example of how valuable the comm lines of individual Scientologists can be.

A couple of years ago, the Office of Special Affairs was handling a situation in which a large television station was trying to obtain and broadcast portions from stolen, confidential Church materials.

I learned that three Scientologists had comm lines to the owner of this station; they put me into contact with him and I explained to him that this was a matter of his station respecting our right to religious freedom, and refraining from any actions that would violate our right to keep these materials sacred for Church members only.

Within 24 hours, he had ordered that his station not air the materials and the situation was fully resolved.

The fact that potential actions adverse to the Church could be handled as a result of using the comm lines of three Scientologists is rather impressive, and demonstrates the power that we, as a group, have when we join forces and work together.

In HCO Policy Letter 1 April 1982, THE SAFE POINT, LRH states:

"One cannot defend himself in a point that has no defenses.

"Without some consideration of security in the first place, any attempt at PR area control is folly.

"Thus the safe point takes consideration over active defense."

In that same Policy Letter, LRH explains what one does to begin establishing a safe point:

"The most important action to undertake when going about making a safe point is to carefully and painstakingly find out who exactly are the top dogs in the area in financial and political circles, and their associates and connections, and to what each one is hostile.

"A handful of allies with impressive sounding titles and positions is not enough. Viability depends on having all areas and persons who could affect or influence the operation under PR control."

It is easy to see from this just how vital personal comm lines are.

By working with the Office of Special Affairs, and by utilizing your comm lines to the fullest, you are making an extremely important contribution to the Church and to the continued expansion of Scientology.

Another way you can contribute is by becoming a member of the Office of Special Affairs yourself. As you read through this and earlier issues, you can see the stellar wins and products of OSA staff members.

Psychiatrists are reeling from the continuous onslaught we have brought against them internationally. Major legal victories are being won on all fronts. Attacks from squirrels and others who would hinder our forward progress are going down to thundering defeat.

Working as a staff member or volunteer with the Office of Special Affairs is an exciting and challenging undertaking, and brings with it a large increase in responsibility.

As Ron says in HCO Policy Letter of 2 November 1970, Issue II, THE THEORY OF SCIENTOLOGY ORGANIZATIONS:

"We're free men and women — probably the last free men and women on Earth. Remember, we'll have to come back to Earth some day no matter what 'happens' to us. If we don't do a good job now we may never get another chance.

"... An organization such as ours is our best chance to get the most done. So we're doing it!"

Contact your local Office of Special Affairs or Department of Special Affairs to find out what part you can play in this vital and exciting game.

— Heber Jentzsch

MAJOR LEGAL VICTORY

Narconon Wins Tax-Exempt Status

In a major legal victory, Narconon has become the first organization in Germany using LRH technology to be officially recognized by the government tax office as a non-profit, tax-exempt organization.

As a result of this decision, Narconon has been exempted from paying all taxes, with the exception of value-added tax (VAT, a form of sales tax), but will only be required to pay fifty percent of the standard VAT tax rate.

"This decision is a major win for Narconon and for Scientologists in Germany."

— Helmuth Blobaum

Representatives of the Department of Special Affairs in Germany worked closely with Narconon and its attorneys to achieve this breakthrough.

"This decision is a major win for Narconon and for Scientologists in Germany," said Helmuth Blobaum, Legal Officer for the Department of Special Affairs in Germany. "It sets the stage for all Churches and other groups in the country using LRH technology to gain similar recognitions."

Victory Over Psychiatric 'Deep Sleep' Treatment

quashed and the new ones ordered, resulting in the original findings being overturned and "deep sleep" treatment being found as the cause of death.

Jan Eastgate, national director of CCHR in Australia, told Scientology Today, "This is basically a justice action applied in society. It gets in ethics on the psychiatrists who were not found guilty for their crimes earlier, and serves to correct a judicial system that did not identify the true source of the crimes in the first place."

In this latest inquest, medical doctors gave evidence against Herron to show that Ms. Francis, a 66-year-old former journalist, had been given a barbiturate overdose which led to cardiac and respiratory failure.

The coroner who testified revealed that Herron had unlawfully and falsely signed the death certificate — stating that Ms. Francis had died of natural causes. In fact, she had died within 24 hours of Herron administering an anesthetic to her to prepare her for electric shock treatment. Under Australian law, deaths that occur under such circumstances must be reported to the police, but Herron did not do so.

On the day the inquest rendered its decision, the courtroom was filled to capacity with media, Chelmsford victims and government officials. Outside the court, a member of Parliament, Mr. Pat Rogan, who has campaigned for a Royal Commission inquiry into Chelmsford, called the decision a "major victory" and said that he would take the matter even further.

"Justice is now being done, but we won't rest here," he proclaimed. "There have been 19 deaths as a result of 'deep sleep' treatment and this decision has opened the way for us to seek justice for other victims."

There was widespread media coverage of the decision, including a filmed interview with Jan and a Church of Scientology minister, and a major morning current affairs program that aired an interview with Barry Hart, a surviving Chelmsford victim. Hart, in 1980, successfully sued Herron for $60,000 in damages on charges of assault and battery, negligence and false imprisonment.

A reporter from the Australian Associated Press news wire service paid a personal visit to Jan at the Church to find out the full story behind this major win. He was astonished at the length of time CCHR members had dedicated themselves to exposing the injustices and abuses at Chelmsford. His 6½-foot long story was printed in a major Melbourne newspaper.

Jan told Scientology Today, "These psychiatrists have systematically misled the media, authorities and the families of victims who died under their supposed 'care.'"

"What was done to the 'deep sleep' victims was the diametric opposite of 'care.' They were drugged senseless, suffered irreversible physical damage, and died because of negligent and brutal treatment," she explained.

"This latest victory means the court has upheld our stand that psychiatrists lie to cover up the most appalling and inhumane activities under the guise of help. Psychiatry's name is blackened for good in Australia," she said.

Scientologists Get Bill Killed; Psychiatrists Served Defeat

Through the dedicated work of members of the Department of Special Affairs (DSA), the Citizens Commission on Human Rights (CCHR) and many of their allies throughout California, a major pro-psychiatry bill was killed in the California legislature.

If passed, this extremely suppressive piece of legislation, Assembly Bill 4516, would have given psychiatrists powers, such as:

- The ability to forcibly lock up anyone in a mental institution by claiming the person would not be able to care for himself if he did not get "help" in the form of electric shocks to the brain, mind-shattering drugs, or other murderous "treatments" which destroy healthy brain tissue and transform living beings into vegetables.
- The ability to violate the right of the individual to refuse these barbaric treatments by getting a special court-appointed "decision-maker" to authorize the psychiatric destruction of the individual.

Kenna Smith, public relations officer for the Department of Special Affairs in Sacramento, says, "This bill would have in effect canceled the Fifth Amendment by explicitly suspending the right to be charged with a crime before being held unwillingly, and would have given psychiatrists an even bigger role as jailers than they already have."

She puts it in simple terms: "This bill had to be killed, and we did it!"

Under California procedure, bills are introduced in a committee of the legislature, where they can be discussed and voted on before going to the floor of the legislature for debate. This provides several chances to kill suppressive legislation like AB 4516.

This particular bill was in the California State Assembly's Ways and Means Committee, a committee which provides the "ways" and "means" to fund

CCHR Blocks Psych Attack On 'Informed Consent' ECT Law

The Citizens Commission on Human Rights (CCHR) recently won another victory in its fight to keep psychiatrists from performing destructive electro-convulsive therapy (ECT) on people who don't want their brains to be fried.

A group of psychiatrists had filed a lawsuit last year in an attempt to knock down a California law, passed in 1974 as a result of CCHR's activities, which protects the rights of citizens against "shock doctors."

The suit names as defendants several state officials who are responsible for administering the law that restricts the use of ECT. To deter the psychiatrists, CCHR petitioned to intervene in the lawsuit as another defendant, alongside the head of the Department of Mental Health of California, the California attorney general, and the head of the Board of Medical Quality Assurance.

After several court hearings in which the psychiatrists fought hard to keep CCHR out of the suit, the judge granted CCHR permission to intervene on behalf of the state against the psychiatric front group, which calls itself the International Psychiatric Association for the Advancement of Electrotherapy (IPAAE).

The psychiatrists claimed that there is a genuine class of people who really want to have hundreds of volts of electricity passed through the delicately balanced circuits and tissues of their brains.

The people in this "class," the suit asserts, are oppressed by being required to sign forms which say that ECT causes memory loss and other problems, and by being required to wait 24 hours after signing to think it over before allowing millions of brain cells to be destroyed by electric shocks.

"The idea that there is a 'class' of people who want to receive electric shock is probably the most absurd thing I've ever heard."

— Kendrick Moxon

Under interrogation by CCHR attorney Kendrick Moxon, the psychiatrists admitted that their "class" essentially consisted of mental patients who had been ruled legally incompetent to make any decisions, and of psychiatrists themselves — who don't receive electric shock but insist on the right to give it to others.

Moxon exposed this fake "class" to the judge, who then threw out the class-action claims, leaving only a thin shell to the psychiatrists' lawsuit. The suit now can only be pursued on the basis of the evidence and allegations made by the very few psychiatrists and patients named in the original complaint.

Notes Moxon, "The idea that there is a 'class' of people who want to receive electric shock is probably the most absurd thing I've ever heard."

The current California law is one of the strongest and most effective in the country guaranteeing the rights of citizens against brutal psychiatric treatments. Under this law, psychiatrists must document that informed consent has been given, and must submit particulars on the case to a separate medical committee for review. Violation of any of these provisions can result in the psychiatrist being fined or losing his license.

According to Moxon, CCHR's acceptance into the IPAAE lawsuit, and the judge's refusal to certify the alleged class of people who want shock, are both significant setbacks for the psychiatrists.

Says Moxon, "They didn't expect they would have to deal with the group that got the law passed originally."

"CCHR worked very hard to get this law on the books. Over the years, the psychs have made several unsuccessful attempts to knock it down so they would be free to shock people without restraint.

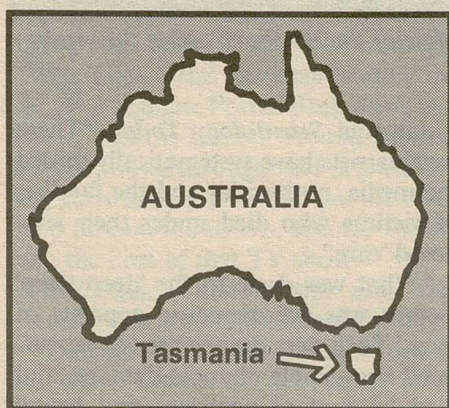

"We simply aren't going to allow that to happen," he concluded.

Tasmanian Psychiatrist Is Linked to Deadly 'Deep Sleep'

The death of a psychiatric patient in Tasmania from massive doses of crippling psychiatric drugs has been linked with the horrors of Chelmsford Hospital and the infamous "deep sleep" treatments which originated there.

Revelations of the similarities in treatment recently surfaced after an investigation was conducted by the New South Wales Complaints Unit, an office established in the Department of Health following exposés by the Citizens Commission on Human Rights (CCHR) of the horrors of "deep sleep" treatment.

According to government investigators, psychiatric patient Irene Cherry, prior to her death, had been administered deadly dosages of psychiatric tranquilizers and anti-depressants. The levels were similar to those given to people in the Chelmsford tragedies.

Due to the alarming nature of the revelations, the Complaints Unit stepped across the state boundary to inform the crown prosecutor in Hobart, Tasmania, that psychiatrist Russel Ashby Pargiter was found to be using the same kinds of treatments that killed 19 and devastated 2,000 in the Chelmsford horrors.

According to Jan Eastgate, national director of CCHR, the interaction between New South Wales and Tasmania to identify and prosecute criminal psychiatrists reflects the increasing public outrage and revulsion for these barbaric psychiatric treatments in Australia.

Front-page articles have appeared in major Australian publications exposing the dangerous and deadly treatments administered by Pargiter.

According to Jan, "The drug doses in the Cherry case are virtually identical with the doses in other 'deep sleep' deaths, and the outcome was the same. We demand that the psychiatrist who prescribed these deadly drugs be held liable for his wrongdoing and be brought to justice for his crimes."

CHURCH WINS FROM AROUND THE WORLD

SOUTH AFRICA

Church Wins in Tax Arena

The Church of Scientology of South Africa has received official notification from the Office of the Receiver of Revenue that several years' worth of tax assessments totaling over $400,000 have been canceled.

The cancellation followed negotiations with the tax office in which Office of Special Affairs (OSA) staff, Church attorneys and accountants conclusively proved that the assessments from the tax office on the Church were inconsistent with South African tax laws.

OSA staff member Anne Hogarth held several meetings with tax officials and established excellent comm lines with them. Through persistence and application of LRH policy, OSA gained the agreement of South African tax officials that no taxes were due for the years concerned.

According to Anne, "This kind of a win shows what can be done when you persist in the application of standard LRH technology to resolve a situation — and get those in the government to follow their own policy as well!"

UNITED STATES

Salt Lake City

Tax Commission Declares Scientology Mission Tax-Exempt

The Utah State Tax Commission has validated the Salt Lake City Mission as a tax-exempt organization, overturning an earlier decision which had withdrawn the mission's tax-exempt status.

In its decision, filed on June 14, the commission threw out an earlier ruling by the Auditing Division of the Tax Commission which had withdrawn the mission's long-standing exemption from sales and use tax.

Noting that the mission has been recognized as tax-exempt by the Internal Revenue Service since 1981, the commission declared the Church "to be a religious institution . . . [that] qualifies for sale and use tax exemption" and ordered that status immediately reinstated.

"OSA worked together with the mission staff as well as local attorneys in Salt Lake City to obtain this win," says Ken Long, a staff member in the Legal Bureau of the Office of Special Affairs U.S. "By operating as a team, we can accomplish the goals that we have set for ourselves and help Scientology expand, faster than ever."

Germany's CCHR Exposes Psychiatric Injustice

The Citizens Commission on Human Rights (CCHR) in West Germany has been making national media coverage on the story of a refugee from East Germany who was sent to a mental institution based on the evaluation of a psychiatrist who had seen him for only half an hour.

At 26 years of age, after spending five of the most important years of his life behind the bars of the Haar mental institution, Detlev Bloss was finally examined by another doctor.

Bloss was found to be completely sane, and had been for the entire time he was being straitjacketed with mind-bending psychiatric drugs among murderers and other criminals in the institution.

The findings of this new doctor on the case enabled Bloss to finally be released.

With the help of CCHR Germany, the story has become a national psychiatric scandal, gaining extensive coverage in major newspapers, magazines and on television shows around the country.

The chief psychiatrist of the Haar institution appeared on one of these shows and tried to whitewash the atrocity that had occurred in his mental hospital by claiming that what had happened to Detlev was an extremely "unusual and isolated" case.

His assertions were shattered, however, because CCHR Germany, as part of its campaign to clean up conditions in this psychiatric institution, had found and exposed the cases of other individuals in virtually identical situations in the same hospital.

The chief psychiatrist was also confronted on the show with the fact that the highest court in the country had stated that cases of unjust incarceration, similar to what Bloss experienced, occur quite often in Germany.

In an attempt to downplay the horrible injustices done to Bloss at the Haar institution, the psychiatrist claimed that atrocities in other psychiatric hospitals were worse than those in his own.

CCHR is continuing its campaign to expose the abuses of individual rights occurring at the hands of German psychiatrists, and through its work is creating a nationwide demand for an end to psychiatric violations of human rights.

Attacking Drug Abuse Through Dissemination Of LRH Purif Technology

The Office of Special Affairs in France has been producing a series of radio programs designed to inform the public of the dangers of drug abuse and provide a solution to the problem through use of the Purification technology developed by L. Ron Hubbard.

The information on these radio shows is fulfilling a great need, as the people of France currently consume more tranquilizers and sleeping pills than any other country in the world. The problem is so widespread that one Frenchman in three is currently on some form of these dangerous drugs.

The shows, recorded in a professional studio and exported to radio stations throughout the country, are the work of the public relations representative of the Department of Special Affairs, Christine Morin, who exports the tapes from her office in Paris.

Listeners are warned about the dangers of drug abuse, and given information about the Purification Rundown and how it enables a person to become free from the effects of drugs.

The first recorded program was so well received that it was broadcast on 70 different radio stations; the second program was broadcast by 120 stations and reached millions of people throughout France!

After these first two broadcasts, Christine received more than 100 letters of acceptance from listeners, many of these reaching for more information about the Purification Rundown.

Government Pays Expenses

Justice Ministry Releases Prisoner to Narconon For Rehabilitation

The Justice Ministry of Holland has granted a request from an inmate in a Dutch prison to be released from incarceration in order to do the Narconon drug rehabilitation program at government expense.

The young man had been confined to the "drug department" of the prison where inmates are legally able to use drugs while incarcerated. Looking for a real solution to his drug problem, the prisoner learned about Narconon.

He and his social worker met with representatives of Narconon and the Office of Special Affairs and, after hearing more about L. Ron Hubbard's drug rehabilitation technology, he insisted on doing the Narconon program.

Visits were then made to officials in the Justice Ministry. They were given a full presentation on the Narconon program and agreed not only to release the prisoner to Narconon, but also to pay all the costs of his program at Narconon.

Staff members from Narconon and the Office of Special Affairs worked together closely in bringing about this excellent win and acceptance for LRH technology, which will open the door for other prisoners to likewise be able to salvage their lives through the Narconon program.

Affairs at the Flag Land Base.

The show, called "Scientology Overnight," reaches the entire Tampa Bay listening area with one-hour segments of programming featuring some aspect of Scientology, Dianetics or LRH, such as the sound track from Tony Hitchman's interview with LRH, Ron's "My Philosophy" tape, and music by Scientology celebrities such as Chick Corea and Al Jarreau.

Between programming segments, the station runs ads for the book Dianetics and promotes the Dianetics lectures which are given nightly at the Clearwater Mission.

"This show gives us a full quarter of the broadcast day to fill exclusively with Dianetics, Scientology and LRH programming," says Richard. "We are not only disseminating Scientology to the community surrounding the Flag Land Base, we are more firmly establishing a very positive PR image for ourselves."

Before the first show aired, the station advertising manager told Richard that when WTAN began promoting "Scientology Overnight," he received a call from a Clearwater resident who wanted to verify that such a program really would be airing in the Tampa Bay area.

After being told this was true, the caller launched into a 20-minute success story on how Scientology put his life back together! The man said he had become totally disillusioned with humanity as the result of being a policeman in a major metropolitan area for 10 years, but Scientology turned his life around.

Office of Special Affairs representative at Flag, Richard Haworth, has been airing on nightly radio programs on Scientology, Dianetics and LRH which are heard throughout the Clearwater and Tampa Bay area.

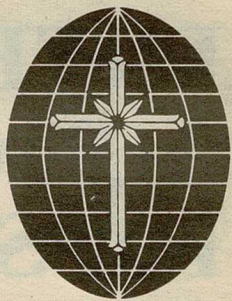

According to an executive at the radio station, the WTAN staff was extremely excited about this call and talked about it for days afterwards.

The station owner was so pleased with the first show that he called Richard to say that he felt the Scientology programming was excellent, that he was proud to have us on the station and that he would give us the time for free if he could afford to do so.

The wins being obtained with "Scientology Overnight" are one more way in which the Office of Special Affairs is creating a safe environment so that Scientology continues to flourish and prosper.

Disseminating To World Leaders President CSI at United Nations

Heber Jentzsch, president of the Church of Scientology International, recently met with a number of world leaders at the United Nations to exchange ideas and information on the handling of world problems.

Those whom he talked with included such dignitaries as Nobel Peace Prize winner Oscar Arias Sanchez, president of Costa Rica, George Fernandez, a top political party leader from India who also heads the Railway Union in that country, and Hans Janitscheck, head of the United Nations World Population Council.

Many countries have been battling such age-old situations as social unrest or drug abuse — without having an effective technology to solve these. Heber's meetings with these top government leaders have created new opportunities to get Scientology technology in use to handle the pressing problems these countries face.

"When national leaders asked me what they could do about education, or crime, or unrest, I would tell them — Scientology can handle that," Heber told Scientology Today.

"For example, I was asked what to do about continuing conflicts between rebels and the established government in one country," Heber told Scientology Today. "I gave the person a copy of the policy covering the reason for persisting conflicts — 'The Third Party Law.'

"Another person asked me what to do about drugs in his country. I gave him a copy of The Way To Happiness. These references are revelations to these people," Heber explained.

When he met with President Arias, Heber discussed the importance of building a strong system of education. He explained the basics of study technology and showed how this vital body of data could be used to help the people of Costa Rica.

The topic of conversation when Heber met with Mr. Janitscheck of the United Nations was how to establish world peace and find solutions to international social unrest.

Heber's meeting with Mr. Fernandez of India, a nation struggling to solve the problems of toxic waste contamination and mass starvation, resulted in a very strong reach for LRH technology.

"Mr. Fernandez is a man of compassion and deep personal concern for his country and his people," said Heber, who was extended a personal invitation to visit India and see for himself what could be done to help the people of that country.

Establishing important and vital comm lines like these often involves help from Scientologists in the field, says Heber, who considers such contributions vital in the expansion of Scientology internationally.

"The support of many, many Scientologists, whose comm lines open doors to the world, has been and continues to be vital in safeguarding and expanding Scientology," he said.

Heber offered a plan of action for all members of the Church: "I encourage each and every Scientologist to reach out and create comm lines, and to make yourselves known and respected as Scientologists. It truly makes the environment that much safer for all of us."

Dianetics: The Modern Science of Mental Health and The Way To Happiness were recently prominently featured on "Our World," a popular international television show produced in Mexico, in a program about best-selling self-betterment books.

The seven-minute segment included an interview with Office of Special Affairs spokesman Ricardo Colin, who emphasized that Dianetics is a workable system which helps people improve their lives.

Closeup shots of the best-selling Dianetics and The Way To Happiness, along with 10 other books by L. Ron Hubbard, dominated the segment, and very effectively communicated the popularity of his works.

The program was relayed from Mexico to other Latin American countries, as well as to several states in the southern part of the United States which have a large population of Spanish-speaking people.

FREEDOM Magazine: A Powerful Voice For Social Reform

The phones in the office of FREEDOM Magazine never seem to stop ringing, and mail from around the country praising the magazine keeps flooding in.

Here are some examples:

- After reading a FREEDOM article exposing the truth behind government refusal to help veterans who are victims of Agent Orange, a U.S. senator telephoned to ask if a confidential source interviewed in that story would be willing to testify at a future Senate hearing regarding the harmful effects of Agent Orange.

- From another part of the country, an outraged great-grandmother wrote a letter to the editor: "Just by the grace of God I was handed your June magazine by a precious friend from the Arkansas Sun newspaper. About six weeks before, my great-grandson, David, 7 years of age, had been put on Ritalin."

After reading a FREEDOM exposé on the dangers of this amphetamine-like psychiatric drug, the great-grandmother demanded the school take David off Ritalin immediately. Her anger over the situation was reflected in her letter: "They [the school] best pray I'm three feet under the sod next year, for David isn't taking that filth again."

- In Nebraska, a television news-woman stated she found FREEDOM to be a valuable source of news and information that she cannot get anywhere else: "Honestly, I've yet to find a subject in FREEDOM I didn't enjoy. This is the only publication I've read that digs into the heart of matters, and relays news other media shy away from."

Published by the Office of Special Affairs U.S., FREEDOM Magazine has been presenting quality investigative reporting in the public interest since 1968. Today, each issue of the magazine reaches tens of thousands of top leaders in business, government, finance, and the news media throughout the United States with forceful articles exposing the crimes of psychiatrists and illegal actions by corrupt government officials. The messages in these articles are powerful and evoke supportive response from around the United States.

For example, a story appearing in the June 1988 edition of FREEDOM entitled "Kids on Ritalin" quoted a number of mothers whose children had been turned into robots after being put on that dangerous psychiatric drug.

An editor with the magazine Woman's World, a weekly publication with a circulation of more than 1.5 million, read FREEDOM's exposé on Ritalin, then called asking to interview one of the mothers quoted in the article. He, too, had been working on a story about Ritalin. Although his article was already written, the editor wanted to include "five or six more paragraphs of another horror story."

Similarly, the editor in chief of a major Washington, D.C., daily newspaper wrote to a member of the Office of Special Affairs and validated her for the quality of the Church's magazine. His letter stated, in part, "The FREEDOM article on Ritalin is a jarring narrative on a substance widely prescribed for hyperactive children. Child psychiatry is indeed retrogressing if this drug, which can lead to 'harder stuff,' is deemed innocuous. Tourette's Syndrome, characterized by wildly uncontrollable body tics, and spouting of epithets, is but one of the heinous side effects."

The editor in chief wrote that his paper, like FREEDOM and the Church of Scientology, was strongly anti-drug. He added that he was passing the information in FREEDOM on to his national editor and the paper's medical writer.

Many of the readers who write in say that they appreciate the magazine's strong stand against drugs. Articles featuring top Scientology celebrities speaking out against drugs and drug abuse not only create a very favorable image for the Church, but also often generate a reach for LRH technology.

The June issue of FREEDOM, for instance, featured an interview with top film and television actress Kirstie Alley, in which she spoke about the results she had obtained from the Purification Rundown. This article prompted a phone call from a U.S. senator's office to the Church's toll-free number in Los Angeles asking for more information about the Purification Rundown on behalf of the senator, who holds a powerful position on the Senate Budget Committee.

A newspaper reporter from Columbia, South Carolina, phoned in to the toll-free number after reading FREEDOM and asked for information on the Purif, saying he really wanted to do the rundown himself. The reporter said that he felt tired and under stress, but that he knew there was more to life. He said he wanted to find out more about life and had decided to get copies of Dianetics and Self Analysis at a local library.

"These are the kinds of wins that show we are impinging very strongly on society and the public at large," says FREEDOM Editor Tom Whittle. "It is going to continue to become apparent to everyone that Scientologists are the most effective group when it comes to social reform."

Ohio Court Is Third To Rule Donations Tax-Deductible

kind in recent times for Scientologists in the U.S. Courts of Appeals."

The 6th Circuit decision follows two other favorable rulings by the 2nd and 8th Circuit Courts of Appeals in New York and St. Louis.

On April 19, 1988, the U.S. 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals in New York ruled that Scientology parishioners' fixed donations to their churches were tax-deductible contributions. Scientologists in the states of New York, Connecticut and Vermont fall within the purview of this court. The 2nd Circuit stated, "Those who adhere to the tenets of the Church participate in the rituals of auditing and training, the central religious experiences of Scientology. . . . The purpose of these activities is to raise the spiritual awareness of the participant to the highest level through a series of progressive steps. Scientologists believe that the enhancement of civilization is linked to the spiritual goals to which they aspire."

The 2nd Circuit left no doubt that it understood the fundamental religious nature of Scientology when it added that "there is no way of measuring spiritual or religious benefits in such a way as to conclude that they are 'commensurate' with the fees paid for participation in the religious activities giving rise to those benefits."

In a similar decision on June 1, 1987, the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis ruled that fixed donations made by Scientologists in the states of Arkansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota for Scientology religious services constituted tax-deductible charitable contributions.

In that ruling, the 8th Circuit stated: "Spiritual gain to an individual church member cannot be valued by any measure known in the secular realm."

The court continued, "Scientologists believe that in every person an immortal spiritual being exists independent of body and mind. A Scientologist becomes aware of this spiritual dimension through a process called 'auditing' . . . . Scientologists also take 'courses' in which they study the doctrines, tenets, codes, policies and practices of the Church, one of the doctrines being that spiritual gains result from this study itself."

As four other appellate courts had previously ruled negatively on this same issue, the matter was petitioned for review to the U.S. Supreme Court. This court accepted the Church's petition and announced in April that it would be reviewing this important issue. The Supreme Court decision on this is expected by late 1988 or early 1989.

Sacramento DSA – Vic Krohn

Creating a Safe Space For Scientology Expansion

As Director of Special Affairs in Sacramento, Vic Krohn is responsible for the safeguarding and expansion of Scientology in the capital of California, America's most populous state.

A Scientologist since 1974, he has been on staff for three and a half years. But he says that his biggest wins have occurred since he became a Department of Special Affairs (DSA) staff member.

"I was out there in society, helping the Church of Scientology," Vic told Scientology Today. "But I wanted to do more. So I joined staff with the Department of Special Affairs."

Vic's experiences before becoming a staff member helped prepare him for dealing with the kinds of publics he works with on a daily basis as DSA Sacramento. His career has included a period as director of public information for a large school district in the Sacramento area (encompassing 71 schools, 45,000 children, 5,000 employees, and a $180-million budget), and extensive experience as a professional writer.

More than 300 of his articles have been published in newspapers and magazines, and his photographs have also been published in such magazines as Sports Illustrated.

Vic served as a consultant to the Veterans Advisory Committee on Agent Orange, a group established by the California State Assembly to assist veterans plagued by problems stemming from exposure to Agent Orange, a highly toxic herbicide used as a defoliant during the Vietnam War.

A contributing editor to FREEDOM, Vic recently wrote an excellent news article on difficulties encountered by veterans exposed to Agent Orange, and the role of corrupt government officials in suppressing true information about the veterans' plight. A recent survey of FREEDOM readers showed that this article was one of the most popular in the June 1988 issue.

Vic has endeavored to make Vietnam veterans exposed to Agent Orange aware of the benefits available from doing the Purification Rundown. He has also assisted American servicemen who have been damaged through exposure to radiation and fallout from nuclear weapons testing, by helping to establish the California chapter of the National Association of Atomic Veterans. One of the leaders of that organization, Tom Saffer, has now done the Purification Rundown — to very beneficial results, Vic notes.

The scope of activities in which the Department of Special Affairs is engaged ranges from work with the Citizens Commission on Human Rights in getting psychs and psych drugs such as Ritalin out of the schools, to working closely with respected leaders of the community on religious freedom issues.

"I am working with and have established an informal interfaith group in Sacramento," Vic said. "The individual members represent groups that monitor the government and its actions for any impact they might have on religious freedom."

Vic and other DSA Sacramento staff can often be found at the state capitol, meeting with legislators and other officials. "We have many friends who are legislators," he said. "We work very closely with them." In fact, Vic recently wrote an article for FREEDOM, validating a California state senator who has championed the cause of human rights in the state.

As someone who has been in close contact with state and federal legislators, news media, and officials in many agencies of government, Scientology Today asked Vic if there was anything he particularly wanted to communicate to our readers.

"I really want to get Scientologists to wear their hats as Scientologists," he said. "They would be surprised how easy it is to work with key community leaders as described in the policy letter written by LRH called 'WHAT WE EXPECT OF A SCIENTOLOGIST.'"

In that policy, LRH states:

"What do we expect of you? To become the best Scientologist that can be and to get on the comm lines of the world and bring a big win where it counts. . . .

"Hit for the key spots by whatever means, the head of the women's club, the personnel director of a company, the leader of a good orchestra, the president's secretary, the advisor of the trade union — any key spot."

As Vic told Scientology Today, "One of the biggest things I have learned is that there are a tremendous number of very good people out there. They want to know about Scientology."

On a typical day, Vic Krohn might have a morning meeting with a state senator, lunch with a group of news media executives, a radio or TV show in the afternoon, and dinner with religious leaders to plan statewide or national interfaith programs. He also manages the activities of the other DSA staff members in Sacramento.

"LRH makes it clear that it takes effective organization to really handle an area," he said. "The staff of the Department of Special Affairs in Sacramento — including Caren Patton, Kenna Smith, Bob Del Chair and myself, backed up by field Scientologists — are taking responsibility for really handling the Sacramento area."

Vic told Scientology Today, "I've learned in being a DSA staff member that clearing this planet is a doable job, and I'm here to help do it! When you work with the Department of Special Affairs, you work directly with Sea Org staff of the Office of Special Affairs who are, in my opinion, among the most dedicated and successful staff on the planet. It gives you a lot of confidence to know you have such an incredible team of professionals backing you up."

Scientologists Get Bill Killed, Defeat Psychs

government programs. The committee had been considering the cost aspects of the bill.

"A few pro-psych lawmakers slipped the bill quietly out of the committee," Kenna says, "after making it look like the bill had been killed. And then, like a zombie in a late night movie, the bill everyone thought was dead rose again and made it to the floor."

However, she continues, "The resurrection of the bill didn't last for long. DSA staff and CCHR instantly sounded the battle cry to community leaders in Sacramento and throughout California, and coordinated an overwhelming opposition to the bill."

Among those who joined in opposition to the bill were the American Civil Liberties Union (a group that provides legal assistance in key civil liberties cases), the California Network of Mental Health Clients (a group of psych victims who survived), and Mental Health Advocates (a group of state-appointed officials who defend the rights of citizens against psychiatry).

These organizations helped the drive by sending telegrams and making phone calls and direct visits to legislators and their aides, as well as by doing media interviews in which they exposed the horrendous consequences of the bill if it were passed into law.

Members of CCHR demonstrated outside the state capitol, demanding not only that psychiatry shouldn't be given any more power, but that psychiatrists should formally be prohibited from being allowed to destroy the lives and futures of those unfortunate enough to become victims of savage psychiatric practices.

Due to the effective actions taken in bringing the dangers of this bill to the attention of California legislators, many elected representatives responded to the voices of their constituents, and stopped the bill on the house floor.

This dealt the final blow to another psychiatric attempt to suppress human rights.

News from CCHR

Wins Against Psychiatric 'Baby-Druggers'

In recent weeks, the Citizens Commission on Human Rights (CCHR) in the United States has been rolling up an impressive tally of wins against psychiatrists and psychiatric drugging of children.

Highlights of these include:

CCHR Blasts Psychs

On "June Cain Miller" TV Show

CCHR has recently been working to expose the psychiatric suppression of schoolchildren through false educational technology which turns out illiterate children. Dennis Clarke, president of CCHR International, has appeared on the nationally syndicated June Cain Miller show two times in recent months.

On one show, Dennis was a guest with Debbie Mace, OT VIII and principal of the successful Mace-Kingsley schools which utilize the study technology developed by L. Ron Hubbard. They were on the show as part of a panel of professionals discussing non-psychiatric methods of instruction.

Debbie talked about LRH's method of education and its results as an alternative to the suppressive psychiatric form of learning too often forced upon schoolchildren. Millions of people nationwide watched the show.

In his other appearance, Dennis and a panel of doctors, who are allies of CCHR, exposed the truly destructive nature of psychiatric drugging of schoolchildren. During this show, the guests joined Dennis in speaking out against the drugging of children with Ritalin.

ACLU Joins Campaign

Against Psych Drugging

Following the effective anti-Ritalin campaign waged by CCHR, a New Hampshire couple, Michael and Valerie Jesson, earlier this year launched a counterattack against the forced drugging of their son, Casey.

The battle has been escalating, and recently the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), a group that provides legal assistance for civil liberties cases, announced that it will participate in the case in support of the Jessons. The ACLU has recognized that the issue of forced psychiatric drugging is so important that the Jessons' case has to be taken all the way to victory.

Claire Ebel, executive director of the New Hampshire ACLU, was quoted in the Providence Journal as saying, "If they can mandate Ritalin, perhaps they can make a persuasive case before judges to mandate steroids for high school athletes in order to make them more productive members of the athletic and academic community."

"Perhaps they could mandate that certain individuals had to take Valium in order to make them less obstreperous members of the community. The precedent here is beyond alarming. It's absolutely unacceptable in a free society."

ABC-TV's "Nightline"

ABC-TV's "Nightline," a major national news show, covered the Casey

Dennis Clarke, president of CCHR International, is an outspoken and much-quoted opponent of psychiatric drugging of schoolchildren. Here he is shown on the nationally syndicated June Cain Miller show.

Jesson case and focused on the constitutional violations involved in the forced drugging of children. The host, Ted Koppel, expressed his strong opposition to requiring that a child be drugged in school.

Dennis Clarke appeared on the show, describing Ritalin as a "chemical strait-jacket," and informed millions of viewers about how psychiatrists regard active children as "problems" who should be drugged.

Denials From a Baby-Drugger

Jerry Weiner, president of the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, and one of the most aggressive advocates of baby-drugging in the United States, made the mistake of meeting Dennis Clarke face-to-face on a national KABC Radio interview show.

Dennis demolished Weiner's defense of child drugging with fact after gruesome fact showing the destruction wreaked by this psychiatric barbarism. This left Weiner weakly denying what he and his ilk have done and are doing to children in North America.

Psych Afraid to Debate CCHR

Dennis Clarke and ally Alexander Schauss went to Utah to debate another psychiatrist, Paul Wender. At the last minute, Wender backed down from the face-to-face debate and refused to go on either TV or radio to discuss the destruction of American children through psychiatric techniques.

Wender may have gotten word of what happened to Weiner the previous month.

'On the Inside'

Scientology TV Show Popular In the Northwest U.S.

Since early 1987, Scientologist Dick Glass has been hosting the 30-minute Portland television talk show, "On the Inside." He has become so well known throughout Portland and the surrounding area that people often stop him on the streets, asking, "Aren't you the host of that TV show?"

Sometimes, people will also ask, "You're a Scientologist, aren't you?"

Dick gets asked that question because his shows almost always feature some aspect of Dianetics or Scientology technology as part of the program.

A professional anchorman and announcer for many years, Dick works closely with the Portland Department of Special Affairs Public Relations Officer Gwen Mayfield, who helps him work out the format and content of his shows.

"We've had Scientology athletes on the show who talk about Dianetics and sports," says Gwen. "We've had mothers who tell how to use Scientology technology to raise children, businessmen who give their successes in using L. Ron Hubbard's administrative and management policies, and teachers who have discussed the effectiveness of the study technology developed by LRH."

In addition to Scientologists, the show has featured civic groups, such as the Portland Jaycees, and local government officials, like a city commissioner and the chief of the Portland Fire Department.

"We are very closely aligned with the needs of the community," says Gwen. "We are helping groups with similar goals and purposes to our own get their messages out as well.

"Scientology is very much a part of Portland life and people who watch 'On the Inside' can see that."

Airing on eight different cable television channels in Portland and the surrounding area, the program reaches cable viewers within a 100-mile radius of Portland. Gwen says, "The content of the show is so professional and informative that 'On the Inside' is now being eagerly run by a number of out-of-state cable stations."

She states, "We're now sending shows to Idaho, Montana, Washington State, and Washington, D.C. And we have plans to expand our audience by getting the program on to even more television stations around the country."

WHAT WE EXPECT OF A SCIENTOLOGIST

A Scientologist is the being three feet behind society's head. And society runs on eight dynamics, not in a sick room. Some of us, of course, would become professional practitioners. But a professional Scientologist is one who expertly uses Scientology on any area or level of the society.

A housewife who does not have professional level skill in Scientology could not expect to run a wholly successful family or keep order in her neighbourhood and keep her family well. A factory foreman could not possibly handle his crews with full effectiveness without professional Scientology skill. The personal assistant to a corporation executive could not do a fully effective job without being a professional Scientologist. A corporation president without a certificate will someday fail. And the head of a country would go to pieces if he didn't know Scientology from a professional angle.

How can these people handle life if they have no expert knowledge of how to handle life.

Now we don't expect everyone in the world to become a trained auditor. But we expect the people who are making the world to have a knowledge of how to make it go.

A trained Scientologist is not a doctor. He is someone with special knowledge in the handling of life.

We have many, many personal success stories in Scientology. They begin with a book acquaintance and bloom when professional skill enters the background. These people, small people, big people, drove a wedge for themselves into companies, societies, with Scientology and then took over control of the area. They succeeded where they never would have dreamed they could. And every time one of us drives in such a wedge, we all win because the world is brought nearer to a sane and decent world.

The factories, the marts of trade, the homes, the neighbourhoods, these are the places we want trained Scientologists. In that way alone, we're on the busy, still healthy communication lines of the world.

Some of us need to run centres and schools just to give the rest of us service when required. Training at a pro level must continue and must be kept good. And service and communication must be given. Hence, we have Central Organizations on every continent and HCOs. But if we avoid the throbbing comm lines of the world and act like doctors, we will not win soon enough as a group.

Any trained Scientologist can win to success in society. Heightened IQ, a knowledge of life, a forthright attitude — with these things it is easy for him or her to improve a social or business position, to get higher pay, to exert wider personal influence. This we know we can do, we have done it so often so let's improve the ability.

L. Ron Hubbard — Founder

Process people weekends, run a co-audit some evenings of the week at home, but get on the active lines of the world and make your presence felt.

It takes full training to do it. It's been done from our books alone but not always well. It takes tough Academy training to make a Scientologist, so don't go at it half armed.

And stop feeling apologetic because you are not a "full time auditor". We are the auditors to the world, not to a handful of the sick.

We are not doctors. We are the world's trouble shooters. When we make a company win, the whole world wins, when we make a neighbourhood win, we all win.

A full time Scientologist makes life better wherever he is. And that is enough pro activity for anyone.

What do we expect of you? To become the best Scientologist that can be and to get on the comm lines of the world and bring a big win where it counts. We don't expect you to hang up a shingle as a doctor and have a private practice. We'll respect you if you do. But we'll respect you just as much and even more if you get trained as a pro and go out and up in the world of action and of life.

Hit for the key spots by whatever means, the head of the women's club, the personnel director of a company, the leader of a good orchestra, the president's secretary, the advisor of the trade union — any key spot. Make a good sound living at it, drive a good car, but get your job done, handle and better the people you meet and bring about a better earth.

And stop feeling hangdog because you "aren't auditing full time". Nobody expects you to.

We'll keep centres going to service your needs, some of us, we'll provide ammunition and books. And the rest of us had better invade every activity there is on a high level of success and make our influence felt on the comm lines of the world.

Scientology is the only game on Earth where everybody wins. So let's help the world win.
